

August 12, 2010

MaxGrip Systems Releases Prosthetic Attachments for Weight Lifting

Maxgrip Systems has made available their Prosthetic weightlifting attachments. These prosthetics make weightlifting possible for individuals with upper extremity amputations.

Luxon Engineering worked closely with the development team at MaxGrip to engineer a manufacturable solution to the original prototype prosthetic design and carry it on through production as a manufacturing liaison. For more information, visit MaxGrip Systems at www.maxgripsystems.com

